*Pandas are most active in the morning during their feeding time (8:30 AM – 10:00 AM); they tend to sleep during the heat of the afternoon, so an early start is essential. In Wangjiang Pavilion Park, don't just walk through—take 30 minutes to sit in a traditional bamboo chair at the tea house. It is the most authentic way to experience "Chengdu Pace." Expert Tips for Day 11:

*Guilin's weather is quite humid, so we recommend having an umbrella or light raincoat handy. Expert Tips for Day 13:

Chongqing is famous for its night scenery; we recommend standing on the ship's sun deck during departure to see the illuminated Hongya Cave and the colorful bridges from the water. Since the ship departs late, you might have time to try a bowl of authentic Chongqing Xiaomian (spicy noodles) near the port. Once on board, keep your passport handy for a smooth check-in process at the cruise reception.

Afternoon: Scenic Cruising & Cultural Lectures: Return to the ship for a gourmet lunch. Spend the afternoon on the sun deck as the limestone cliffs begin to narrow. You may also participate in on-board cultural activities, such as Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM) workshops, kite making, or Tai Chi lessons led by the ship's master.

Expert Tips for Day 14:

For Shibaozhai, the stairs inside the pagoda can be narrow and steep; we recommend wearing sturdy walking shoes. If you visit Fengdu, please note that it involves a fair amount of uphill walking; while golf carts are often available for an extra fee, walking allows you to see the intricate details of the temples. On the ship, don't miss the TCM lecture—it's a fascinating introduction to herbal medicine and acupuncture that many international travelers find incredibly insightful.
